With the right qualifications,
where you come from
doesn't matter,
where you're going does.

Your Future: Chancery Barrister?

The Chancery Bar

Many people are attracted by the idea of becoming a barrister. This may be because of an interest in advocacy, the attractions of self employment or simply a desire to work in the law. However, there are many different areas of practice at the Bar and it can be difficult to know which is right for you.

If you are looking for an area which is intellectually challenging, diverse and stimulating, the Chancery Bar may be the place for you.

Chancery barristers act as advocates and give advice, applying their knowledge of legal principles to provide practical solutions for their clients, whether they are individuals or multi-national corporations. The legal principles which they apply span a wide range of areas, from company and insolvency to property, trusts and tax and many in between - as illustrated in the adjacent box. Much of the litigation arising out of the recent recession continues to be dealt with by the Chancery Bar, highlighting its importance.

If you want to find out more about a career at the Chancery Bar and Chambers which offer pupillage in those areas, the Careers Fair is an excellent opportunity to do so. If you would like to attend please register for free at www.chba.org.uk as soon as possible.

We hope to see you there.

Malcolm Davis-White QC
Chairman, Chancery Bar Association
